I thought I'd troll my friend with a negative review of this game, but after playing the newest iteration released here on steam I can't bring myself to do so. Now as someone who sucks at video games I find some parts of the game difficult to get through before practicing for a while.

It's a simple game reminding me somewhat of that classic Simon Hasbro game. I found this game fun to play, just wish the armors had fidget spinners on them.. This is a challenging mini mental game that requires you to remember what color matches with what number on the keyboard. Once you figure that out the game seems easy until it gets a lot faster adding in jumps and turns. Honestly it reminded me of temple run with a sprinkle of Guitar hero with the colors. I found it to be fun and at its asking price its definatly worth a try.
